Summary Format

The Summary should be based only on the technical contents of the talk. For example, a professor may spend some time talking about what he thinks will make you successful in research, and then talk about some research projects in which he has been involved and some future research projects on which you can work with him.

Your Summary should include only material on the research (either the projects on which he has worked, is working, or plans to work). You should not include material on what he thinks will make you successful in research.

 The length of your summary should be at least 25 lines of text. If the talk did not contain enough material for 25 lines of text, then you may search the web for additional material on the research, and include such material.

 Of course, you may not directly copy material you found elsewhere – that would be plagiarism.
