

Artificial Intelligence: A Definition

The field of study concerned with understanding the activities of the human mind and replicating those activities on a computer.